On Saturday, February 21st, Carlisle High School hosted the Pennsylvania Junior Academy of Sciences (PJAS). Despite the snowy weather, over 200 student participants from regional middle and high schools presented their scientific research to panels of judges. Out of the 30 students CASD entered into the competition, 19 students received a 1st place award. The 19 students will now advance to the state PJAS competition hosted by Penn State University May 17-19th, 2015. Because of their extremely high scores, Danyon Fischbach and Kaitlyn Dworak also received 12th grade high achievement awards.”

All of the student participants put a lot of hard work, effort, and time into their scientific research and presentations. On behalf of the Science Department and CASD, we congratulate all of the student participants for doing such an outstanding job representing their schools!
